TREE WARDEN'S REPORT.

To the Citizens of Fairhaven:

I have the honor to submit to you my first annual report on the work of the Tree Department of the town of Fairhaven.

The destructive work of the elm leaf beetle upon the shade trees of the town has been enough to warrant the purchase of an equipment of sufficient strength to check the ravages of the beetle even on the tops of the the highest trees.

To give the town the best return on its investment, it was necessary to have the services of an expert, who visited with the warden the different builders of power spraying machines.

After observing demonstrations by a number of machines and visiting Brookline, Medford, Cambridge and Lynn, where the field work of these machines could be seen, it was decided to purchase the Frost power spraying machine.

The result of the purchase has been satisfactory, and the machine, with proper care, should be serviceable for twenty-five years.

The work done by the Tree Department during the season may be summed up under the following heads:

1. SPRAYING.
2. TRIMMING.
3. REMOVING AND PLANTING.

1. Spraying: All the trees in the town along public highways, together with many standing on private property, were given an application of the spray. In a few cases, owing to various causes, the first application was not effective, and a second one was found necessary.

In addition to the work performed by the new machine in Fairhaven, it was possible, with the approval of the Board of Selectmen, to engage in a similar work for the town of Mattapoissett, the profits from which being used to further the work in Fairhaven.

2. Trimming: In order to keep the trees healthy and vigorous and in good form, it is necessary from time to time to remove dead stock, cut back the new growth, and clear the trees of objectionable branches. A great deal of such work was found necessary during the year. While much of the expense for the work was borne directly by the town, that which was done on private property was paid for by the owners. The electric light, telephone and street railway companies also bore a part of the expense of trimming along their lines by furnishing labor. This was done, however, under the direction of the Tree Warden.

3. Removing and Planting: If the town would preserve a good general appearance of its streets, dead trees and old ones must be removed when no longer serviceable.

The work on Centre street, where six old trees were removed and new ones put in their places, was paid for by the Rogers estate.

On the Library property, three new trees were set, the expense being borne by the Library.

In all, forty-eight dead trees were removed and nine young trees planted.

The Tree Warden wishes to thank the citizens and the Improvement Association who so ably and willingly assisted in preserving the beauty of Fairhaven's streets.

The Tree Warden recommends that the sum of two hundred dollars ($200.00) be appropriated, to be used in planting young trees where dead ones have been removed, and in other bad openings along the highways.

The Tree Warden further recommends that the sum of twelve hundred dollars be appropriated, to be used in caring for the trees during the coming season, which sum would make it possible to extend the work of protection to country roads where the elm beetle is rapidly destroying the foliage and where, under present conditions, nothing can be done.

Respectfully submitted,

PETER MURRAY.

STREET DEPARTMENT.

The Board of Selectmen appointed Mr. John H. Howland Superintendent of Streets and he served for some months, after which the work was in charge of Mr. Charles P. Maxfield, and Mr. Henry C. Pierce as foreman.

At the beginning of the year the board found bills amounting to $1,492.15 awaiting payment from the previous years, and voted to pay them, and to pay the bills for current expenses when presented, so that each year shall stand by itself, and each new board on taking charge of the work can count on the whole of the appropriation made in town meeting.

During the year work was done wherever repairs seemed to be most needed. The board deemed it a wise expenditure to put oil upon the streets most used. It therefore bought 6,200 gallons of dustoline, and the results of its use have been very satisfactory.

The board also voted that bills for all departments should be approved by two members of the board before orders for their payment should be drawn on the town treasurer.

The following is a brief statement of the work done by the Street Department during the year:

It has been the aim of the board to have the street department attended to in the best manner and at the smallest expense possible, especially in keeping the streets clean and tidy, and keeping up the general character of our town for cleanliness.

The cost of removing snow from the streets in which the car tracks run has been $222.01 during the fiscal year just ended, and a bill for one-half that amount has been sent to the Union Street Railway Co., payment of which will be made to the town treasurer.

We recommend that the town employ an expert to examine the boiler in the road roller, as the tubes are getting poor and are not safe to use.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

TO THE HONORABLE BOARD OF SELECTMEN :—

Gentlemen:—The Board of Fire Engineers herewith present their report from May 1, 1909, to Feb. 1, 1910.

On June 3, a reel and 400 feet of hose was stationed at the north end of the town, and a company was organized to be known as Hose Company No. 3. Through the energetic efforts of the superintendent of fire alarm, Clifton A. Hacker, a large amount of work has been accomplished on the fire alarm system at a comparatively small expense to the town. We have had six bell alarms and 27 still alarms. The total value of property wherein fire has occurred is estimated to be about $56,920; total loss, $4,386.00. Many repairs upon the apparatus and some new equipments are absolutely necessary, and we recommend the following amounts: Hose No. 1, $70.00; Hose No. 2, $60.00; Hook and Ladder No. 1, $20.00; Protecting Society, $80.00; new wire for fire alarm, $50.00. The department is badly in need of 500 feet of 2½ inch fire hose. At Hose No. 2 house there are about 500 feet of hose that are either porous or worn, so that it is liable to burst at any time when used.

We also recommend that a fire alarm signal bell or whistle be installed near the north end of the town, and that a suitable house be built to keep Hose No. 3 in.

In view of the above figures and the requests for appropriations for the various departments, amounting to $17,187.96, we would advise that a portion of the indebtedness falling due this year be extended, as provided for by Article 9 in the warrant for the annual town meeting.

REPORT

SEWER COMMISSIONERS

REPORT OF SEWER COMMISSIONERS.

HONORABLE BOARD SELECTMEN, TOWN OF FAIRHAVEN:—

Gentlemen:—The Board of Sewer Commissioners present their annual report with such recommendations as they deem best for the work of carrying on this department.

We regret to say that owing to the increased work called for at the station we have not been able to keep within the appropriation for 1909 and 1910, also owing to repairs which we were compelled to make and which we had not foreseen, such as retubeing a boiler and the purchase of hose for flushing sewers.

As considerable criticism has been made in regard to the purchase of the hose I wish to state that it was bought upon my orders as I did not think it was possible to get through another year without it, moreover it was secured at the same price as the hose purchased by the fire department for the north part of the town on a competitive bid at the lowest price submitted.

In the year 1908 the appropriation made for sewer maintenance was Three Thousand Dollars; this amount was over run by several hundred dollars.

At our last annual report we requested the Selectmen to allow us an increase of Five Hundred Dollars, making the appropriation Three Thousand Five Hundred Dollars, with the understanding that the bills contracted for 1908 should be taken care of; through some oversight this was not done, probably owing to the excitement of the town election.

At our first meeting in the year 1909 we found we had a coal bill amounting to Four Hundred Fifteen Dollars, several other bills left over, one from the Atlas Tack Co. which had been running for two years not rendered. We found our increase for maintenance was completely wiped out, leaving us with less than for 1908.

We would suggest that the voters give the board for maintenance for 1910 and 1911 Three Thousand Five Hundred Dollars; by strict economizing it may be possible for them to do the work for this amount provided no unusual work is call for.

In addition we would ask that all unexpended balances from the several sewers built recently, with a bill to be collected from Union Street Railway Co. for damage to hose be carried over to the credit of Sewer Maintenance with such sum as may be required to make up enough to clean up all back bills in this department. This will give the new board less worry and work.

In regard to the system of sewerage asked for at the north part of the town, your commissioners, with the assistance of Frank M. Metcalf, have made a partial survey and are having a rough draft made of the streets. It would be out of the question at this time for the town to entertain any idea of a complete sewerage system, the cost would be so great. Partial relief could be given to the street running south from Coggeshall street next to the bridge, by putting in a main from the river up Coggeshall street to the corner of the street mentioned above large enough to be of service to drain this whole district connecting with it an 8 inch sewer to take care of the sewerage from the three or four large tenement houses and several cottages which are already built and occupied. The board notices that the overflow from the cesspools on this street must be very offensive during the hot season. At the time of our visit it was frozen like a glacier.

Respectfully submitted for the Board,

GEO. T. THATCHER. CLERK.

BOARD OF SEWER COMM.

REPORT
BOARD OF HEALTH

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH.

TO THE CITIZENS OF FAIRHAVEN :—

The Board of Health respectfully submits its annual report for the year 1909.

The Board organized March 2, 1909, and Charles P. Maxfield was elected chairman and A. N. Bruckshaw as secretary.

During the year the Board has been notified of 54 nuisances and unsanitary conditions; upon notice to the owners of such property the nuisances were abated.

Mr. Wm. H. Staples was appointed inspector of slaughtered animals and during the year 157 have been inspected by him, 139 hogs.

14 cows.

No serious epidemic of disease has been prevalent in the town. During the last twelve months 86 cases of contagious and infectious diseases have been reported.

9 Scarlet fever.

62 Measles.

2 Diphtheria.

6 Typhoid fever.

2 Varricella.

1 Ophthalmia neonatorum.

3 Acute anterior poliomyelitis.

Physicians have been very prompt in reporting cases of contagious diseases, and the board respectfully request a continuance of such service, as it is imperative in order to stamp out epidemics, especially among the school children.

Stamped postal cards are provided the physicians on which they make their report and return to the secretary of the board.

The board recommends that the collection of swill and garbage be let out by contract, to some responsible person or persons who will satisfy the board as to their ability to collect garbage in a sanitary manner.

The board has endeavored to eliminate the practice of allowing children to collect garbage by issuing permits to adults only. Twelve such permits have been granted.

On petition of the fishermen of Fairhaven, the clam and quahog licenses—to take clams and quahogs from polluted waters—the board declared all licenses issued prior to Aug. 1, 1909, null and void, and granted new permits—to citizens of Fairhaven only. One hundred and eighty-four such permits were granted.

The board wishes to call the attention of the public to a very important notice (Chap. 80, Sec. 78, of the Public Statutes): When a householder knows that a person within his family is sick with smallpox or any disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice to the selectmen or board of health of the town in which he dwells. If he refuses or neglects to give such notice he shall forfeit a sum not exceeding $100.00 (one hundred) dollars.

We want to impress upon the citizens of the town the great importance of this statute, as the secretary of the board has to notify immediately the superintendent of schools, the public library officials and the state authorities.

Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES P. MAXFIELD,
CHARLES E. WESTGATE,
ANDREW N. BRUCKSHAW, M. D.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT
FOR THE YEAR ENDING DEC. 31, 1909.

To the Trustees of The Millicent Library:

I have the honor of presenting the librarian's report for 1909 :

Growth

The additions for the year number 941 volumes to the main collection, and 406 to the school collection at a cost of $1,166. Two hundred and ninety-eight volumes were rejected, leaving a net gain of 643, which brings the main collection up to 19,984 volumes. Of the 941 volumes' of additions, 497 were new titles, 107 were additional volumes, making 604 of new matter, and the remaining 346 were additional copies. Four hundred and forty-five volumes were fiction, 63 useful arts, 61 travel, 56 fine arts, 54 education, statistics and folklore, 52 bound periodicals, 51 biography, etc. The books added to the children's room numbered 252, of which 79 were new titles.

One hundred periodicals and newspapers were subscribed for at a cost of $270; of the more popular, from two to four copies are taken.

In the spring some eight hundred volumes suitable for collateral reading were placed in collections of about forty in each of the twenty rooms at the grade schools. The collections, which are changed from room to room twice a year, are in the care of the teachers, who report large use of them both in connection with classroom work and for home reading; the use at home running up to eight hundred issues in a month and more.

Binding

Over nine hundred volumes needing the attention of a binder were carefully examined; 298 volumes were rejected, 470 re-bound, and the remainder repaired by the regular staff.

Registration.

Three hundred and sixty-six persons received borrowers' cards; adult residents of Fairhaven 125, of school age 130, residents of New Bedford 25, and of other places 86. These names bring the total registration since May, 1902, to 4,153. The exact number of cards in use during the year was not determined, but is considerably less than 4,000.

Home Use

The number of current (unbound) periodicals issued was 6,926. The number of bound books issued from the main collection was 38,311, from the fiction pay duplicate collection 892, and from the school room collections 4,990, a total of 44,193 bound volumes. The total number of pieces loaned therefore is 51,119.

The Building

Besides the usual numerous minor repairs and improvements new Persian rugs were purchased for the space about the loan desk, a new table built for the reading room, electric fixtures placed upon the tables, and the furniture cleaned and refinished.

Personal

During the spring, a trustee, Rev. F. B. Lyman, resigned because of removal from town and was succeeded by Mr. Morris R. Brownell. On May 19, the founder of the institution and president of the board suddenly passed away to the great sorrow and loss of all his associates. His son, Mr. Henry H. Rogers, has been elected to his place and chair at the board.

The library staff remains the same as for the past five years. Members of it have attended the sessions of the national and local library organizations. The Librarian was elected a member of the Council of the American Library Association at its meeting at Bretton Woods in June; he also has continued to serve the Massachusetts Library Club as secretary, and as president of Cape Cod Library Club.

Very respectfully submitted,

D. B. HALL, Librarian.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

To the School Committee of Fairhaven:—

In accordance with your regulations, I present the following brief, annual report relating to the organization and management of the school department. Appended to this report are the customary financial and statistical tables, which in a condensed form present the main facts as to expenditure, enrolment, attendance, teachers, equipment, and so forth.

In the main, the location and organization of grades and classes has remained the same as last year. It was then reported that the opening of private schools had reduced the number for that year on an average of three and one-half pupils per room, though this decrease in numbers was so scattered that it did not make it possible to reduce the number of school rooms. At the opening of school last September, it was found that the number of pupils returning to the public schools, together with the increased enrolment, made it impossible to care for as many grades at the Oxford school as had been planned, thus making it again necessary to transfer the eighth grade to the Rogers School, and place part of the sixth grade, together with the fifth, in the old High school building. The Oxford school has been able to care for the first, second, third, fourth, half of the sixth, and the seventh grades, by crowding a part of the third and fourth grades into one room.

The conditions and reasons for closing the New Boston school one year ago, as discussed in our last report, were unchanged in September, when it was decided by the board that it would be inexpedient and unwise to re-open this school at that time, consequently the pupils from this section have continued to be conveyed in the school car to the central schools. A comparison of the financial statement of 1909 and 1910 shows that there has been a saving of $500.00 on teachers' salaries and that the increase in the cost of transportation resulting from the closing of this school has been less than $100.00. These pupils have been scattered among six different rooms, thus adding no expense for teaching.

All other pupils in the town from grade one to eight have been cared for in the six rooms at the Washington Street school, and the eight rooms and the hall at the Rogers school, while the preparatory class has as formerly been housed in the old High school building though the room has been overcrowded. The eighth grade, of 56 pupils, has also with difficulty been crowded into one room at the Rogers school. Unless severel pupils withdraw from the present eighth grade, it will not be possible to accommodate them next year in one room in the old High school building.

A large class of seventeen was graduated from the High school in June. The number completing the preparatory class in June was smaller than for many years, besides, there were no pupils to enter from the town of Acushnet, which fact caused the enrolment at the High School to be a trifle less than reported last year. On the other hand, the total number enrolled in grades for the fall term is 931 as compared with 885 last year, an increase of 46. This additional number having been scattered over all the grades did not this year involve any additional room or teaching force.

The greatest change during the year has occurred in the teaching force. Since June it has been necessary to locate and investigate many candidates in order to recommend five teachers for very important positions in the High school, and since our last report ten new teachers for the work of the grades. At the same time, in other schools of the Union, seven other new teachers including a Principal have been required. This necessity of supplying twenty-two teachers out of a corps of fifty, within six months indicates something of the difficulty of keeping the work of the schools up to a fair standard of efficiency, as well as the amount of time and effort necessary to secure recruits for the places made vacant by teachers who have been constantly growing in ability and efficiency.

The general work of the schools has been carried on along lines already established in recent years. The manual training, cooking, sewing, physical training, being continued in the upper grammar grades, and gradually extended, whenever desirable and feasible, down to the lower grades. In this way the schools of Fairhaven have for some years attempted to meet that reasonable demand for some type of manual or industrial work in connection with the older studies. In order that it may be made clear to those who have failed to notice in former reports or have forgotten, it seems best here to re-state the fact that none of the work in manual training, physical training, and cooking, costs the town a cent from the public treasury. All of these practical and highly desirable subjects are worth the price that many of the towns are willing to pay for by town appropriation. The citizens, therefore, ought to consider it fortunate that these opportunities are available for our boys and girls in the grades, without any outlay from the public funds.

In this connection a suggestion regarding the expenditures of the regular town appropriation may be proper. It is a fact that cannot be controverted that the education of public school children is expensive; and, with the increasing demand upon the public schools, is bound to be no less expensive in the future. As has been before stated, it is very certain that every effort is made by everyone connected with the school department to keep the expenditure within the limit of actual necessity, and sometimes far within the necessity. A glance at the financial statement shows the cost of different departments. The large expense has been for salaries of teachers, and here the expenditure is inevitable, since Fairhaven cannot reasonably or economically pay any smaller salaries than at present, nor can fewer teachers be employed. The janitor service cannot be reduced in any way. The expenditure for supervision is pretty largely paid for by the state. The expenditure for transportation saves the maintenance of at least four schools, which would have to be conducted under very unsatisfactory conditions, at an expense of at least $3,000. This expenditure for transportation without any question makes a net saving. The expenses for repairs are for the varied minimum repairs that the exigencies of age and weather make imperative. The largest items under this head have been the re-building of the tops of the large chimneys and repairs on the copper work of the roof, also the re-building of the platform and stairs at the rear entrance at the Oxford school; and at the Rogers school where the east side of the tower had to be re-pointed. Here also repairs to the copper work on tower and roof had to be made. In addition, a new floor was put down in the lower corridor, which is only a start on work that should be continued until all the present old floors, which are in a very bad condition, are replaced. The expenditure for books and supplies of all kinds has been not much over $1.00 per pupil for the entire year. While under the head of miscellaneous comes the items of water, light, equipment, clerical work, census, printing, care of grounds, etc.

However, it has been possible, with help outside the regular appropriation, for Fairhaven to have the advantages of schools of well-known excellence, and still have the cost per pupil far below the average in the state, and much below the average of towns having equal advantages.

Those of us who were educated twenty-five or fifty years ago, sometimes look back and question why the narrow school curriculum of those days is not adequate and sufficient to meet the demands of the present, but we fail to realize that the home in those days, in the majority of cases, was an educational center in itself, which furnished the training along the manual and technical lines which is now, in most cases, impossible of realization with the changed economic and social conditions.

How many of our successful business and industrial managers got their manual training and their executive and industrial beginnings on the farm or in the shop of their fathers, where either necessity or environment brought the boys and girls under the broad educational influences which were not thought to be educational, since they were not under the school roof. As a prominent public man has recently said—"The school then had a narrow curriculum and the home had a broad curriculum." That is, the home was half home and half shop.

Now that the father is so busily and constantly enwrapped with the commercial and industrial demands of these rushing times, he is able to give almost nothing in the way of education to his boy. Likewise the modern mother has so many demands upon her time outside the home that there is little time or opportunity for the splendid training in domestic art and home economics that was practiced in the home of twenty-five or fifty years ago. To overcome the disadvantages of this narrow curriculum, in recent years, the demand upon the public school to broaden its curriculum, to meet these phases of education, has been irresistible. The situation has been reversed to a certain extent so that it is now becoming necessary with the narrowness of the home curriculum, to broaden the school curriculum, and make the school half school and half shop.

In order that the boys or girls of the grammar school and first years in the High school may have an opportunity to get that kind of an education, which for some boys and girls is the only kind of training that appeals to them, courses have been established which tend to utilize these motor impulses and interests, which at this period of life are strong and which, unless given opportunity for exercise in connection with the more formal training, impel such boys and girls to break off completely their educational opportunities, and flock to the stores and factories. Possibly the tardy realization of the necessity of this kind of training provided by the public schools at public expense, has been the cause for a somewhat radical demand for industrial education, and caused some to swing to the extreme in this direction.

As pointed out in our last report, there have been many radical extremes in thought and action both for and against the introduction of this phase of education. Fortunately, however, the legislature under the direction and influence of Governor Draper, has made possible a new or re-organized state Board of Education. The appointment of a commissioner, with two assistants with greater powers and opportunities, makes the outlook for larger and wiser development of our educational interests much brighter than ever before.

That Fairhaven boys and girls have now for several years been afforded opportunities in the most desirable of these newer phases of education is a well known fact to all except a few who have failed to take note of repeated explanation to this effect. It has become a sort of chronic habit on the part of some newspaper and magazine writers to claim that high schools are extremely narrow in their aims, offer preparation only for college, and consequently work along classical lines. However much this criticism may belong to some high schools in some communities, it is nevertheless a fact that the Fairhaven High School has for a number of years had the broadest kind of aims; and as soon as it was possible by our present equipment the widest kind of opportunities have been afforded, not only for preparation for college, for technical schools, for normal schools, but such courses as will help to prepare pupils for commercial and industrial positions. No better testimony as to the success of the efforts to provide opportunities for boys and girls to prepare themselves for higher education or for active life can be found than in the list of graduates, and their occupation, as published in this report. Not only do the pupils have the choice of the several main courses, but all pupils have many and varied opportunities in

- domestic art, domestic economy, physical and manual education, free hand drawing, mechanical drawing, sewing, dressmaking, etc., through which they may discover for themselves something as to their tastes and abilities, thus sowing the seeds for growth and development along the lines of least resistance and of greatest adaptability.

Owing to the necessity for keeping expenditures down to the lowest possible minimum, the supply of text books has been year after year kept far below the real needs of the schools, and so badly worn and soiled from use, over a period more than double the usual life of text books, that it is absolutely necessary to make provision for replacing these worn out and worthless books, and for the purchase of additional books.

This year the work of the grades has been made much more efficient and satisfactory by the introduction of new texts in language and grammar, and it has also been possible to purchase new texts in physiology and hygiene which are modern and helpful, and in sympathy with the present movement for better sanitation and civic improvement, and in the general conditions of healthful living than any books before prepared.

During the year consideration has been given to the ways and means of improvement in methods of teaching writing, and we hope soon to make some recommendation which will promise better results in this subject.

It is certain that in the near future some more reasonable and sanitary substitute will have to be made for the common drinking cup and the common towel in all public places. The school department has in recent years experimented with individual paper towels and with individual paraffine drinking cups, the expense and practicability of which is still a matter of question. It is a fact, however, that a large majority of our children provide themselves with their own drinking cups, and would the parents of all children be sufficiently interested in protection of their individual children to instruct them to possess their own drinking cups, the demand upon the school department to furnish them would not be necessary.

In connection with the general effort in recent times to safeguard the health of people, and of school children in particular, there is a far more important question which I wish to mention. In the large majority of cases pupils who are entering our schools at the age of five are altogether too immature and undeveloped, physically and mentally, not to suffer from the close confinement and formal work of the schoolroom. The evils of this early entrance at the age of five have been reduced by the half-session plan. However, theory and practice are very much in favor of the entrance age limit being fixed at six years.

Two results follow such a plan. First, less useless effort has to be expended upon children who are mere babies, and whose slow development makes it impossible for them to be prepared to take up second grade work in one year. Second, such children are not subjected to the discouraging necessity of being prematurely forced to do mental tasks for which they are not sufficiently developed. Furthermore, this immaturity and the consequent struggle of the part of many to keep up with the demands of the grades often affects the pupil's work and attitude through all the grades, and sometimes extends to the High school, providing such pupils do not get discouraged and drop out before reaching the end of the grammar course.

I therefore recommend that the age limit for entrance to the first grade be made six years, that is, for children who are six years old, on or before Sept. 30.

For the cordial and unbiased support in performing the various duties of this office; for the satisfaction of serving a board which has but one aim—the common weal of the public schools and the children for whom the schools exist,—I am duly grateful. For the patient and skillful efforts of teachers, unappreciated and insufficiently rewarded as they often are, this department wishes to express its appreciation.

Respectfully,

FRANK M. MARSH.
